MAKE HAY THE VERMEER WAY.

MOW IT. DRY IT. BALE IT.

It started in 1971 when Vermeer invented the big, round baler and brought it to the market. It changed the way we make hay, helping producers do more with less and inspired innovation across the industry. How we handle, store and feed hay — it all changed. Fast forward more than 50 years and Vermeer is still committed to the hay and forage industry. The more it changes, the more Vermeer and local dealers help hay producers stay ahead of the times and be Equipped to Do More.®

Using Limousin & Lim-Flex® EPDs to Aid Selection

The North American Limousin Foundation (NALF) uses all available information to predict an animal's EPD. This information includes: individual performance, pedigree, progeny and grand progeny performance, and genomic information. All this information is combined into one, easy to use, number that helps producers make genetic improvement in their herd.

Since the spring of 2015, NALF joined 11 other U.S. and Canadian breed associations to form the largest international multi-breed cattle evaluation in the world through International Genetic Solutions (IGS). This allows growth and carcass EPDs for Limousin and Lim-Flex® (Limousin x Angus hybrid) animals to be directly compared with Red Angus, Simmental, Gelbvieh, Shorthorn, Maine Anjou, and Chianina animals (and all their hybrid animals). This makes selection decisions easier for commercial producers.

Listed below are the definitions for Limousin and Lim-Flex EPDs and the units in which they are published. For more information visit www.NALF.org or call 303-220-1693.

Maternal and Growth Traits

Calving ease direct (CED): Percent of unassisted births of a bull's calves when he is used on heifers. A higher number is favorable, meaning better calving ease.

Birth weight (BW): Predicts the difference, in pounds, for birth weight of the calf.

Weaning weight (WW): Predicts the difference, in pounds, for weaning weight (adjusted to age of dam and a standard 205 days of age). This is an indicator of growth from birth to weaning.

Yearling weight (YW): Predicts the expected difference, in pounds, for yearling weight (adjusted to a standard 365 days of age). This is an indicator of growth from birth to yearling.

Milk (MK): The genetic ability of a sire's daughters to produce milk expressed in pounds of weaning weight.

Total maternal (TM): An index that combines growth and milk information as a prediction of the weaning weight performance of calves from a sire's daughters. A greater TM value means a mother that returns comparatively higher weaning weights on her calves. $TM \text{ Index} = MK \text{ EPD} + \frac{1}{2} WW \text{ EPD}$.

Calving ease maternal (CEM): Represented as percent of unassisted births in a sire's first-calving daughters. A higher number represents more favorable calving ease.

Scrotal circumference (SC): Is a good indicator of age at puberty, and is a highly heritable trait. EPDs for scrotal circumference are expressed in centimeters, with higher values indicating genes for larger yearling scrotal circumferences of sons and earlier puberty of daughters.

Stayability (ST): Predicts the genetic difference, in terms of percent probability, that a bull's daughters will stay productive within a herd to at least six year of age. The stayability EPD is one of the best measures currently available to compare a bull's ability to produce females with reproductive longevity.

Docility (Doc): Predicts genetic differences in the probability that offspring are scored a 1 (docile) or 2 (restless) as opposed to 3, 4, 5 or 6 (nervous to very aggressive). Higher EPD values for docility represent genetics for calmer behavior.

Carcass Traits

Yield grade (YG): Differences in yield grade score, which is a predictor of percent retail product. Smaller values suggest that progeny will have a better lean to fat ratio.

Carcass weight (CW): Differences in pounds of hot carcass weight, adjusted to an industry standard age endpoint.

Ribeye area (REA): Differences in ribeye area in inches between the 12th and 13th rib. Greater ribeye areas are preferable.

Marbling (MB): Predicts the differences in the degree of marbling within the ribeye as expressed in marbling score units. Greater marbling numbers are preferable and are an indicator of higher carcass quality grades.

Fat (FT): Differences for fat thickness, in inches, for a carcass over the 12th rib. Smaller numbers of fat thickness are preferable as excess fat can be detrimental to yield grade.

Mainstream Terminal Index ($MTI): Predicts genetic differences in profit per carcass by combining the potential for and value of post-weaning growth, quality grade and yield.

COW POWER

The Proof is in the Genetics

Since the first Limousin cattle were imported into the United States, the breed has impacted the beef industry. The breed's superior efficiency in turning feed and forage to pounds of beef made it a mainstay in profit-minded breeding systems and continues to do so today.

A strong commitment in continued breed improvement by members of the North American Limousin Foundation has created cattle that are relevant in a changing industry. The North American Limousin Foundation is a partner of International Genetic Solutions, which provides the largest multi-breed genetic evaluation in the world for international cattle evaluation and the development of EPDs. Never in history has been such a wide array of genetic material evaluated under one roof. The result is the deepest and broadest selection pool ever available to our industry with over 16,000,000 total animals and more than 340,000 new animals being added annually.

Calving ease and calf vigor are traits upon which the Limousin breed was founded on in this country. The Limousin breed remains a calving ease leader. Limousin influenced females are unsurpassed in terms of stayability and lifetime maternal productivity.

NALF was the first breed association to create a docility EPD, allowing both breeders and commercial producers a selection tool for this trait.

Using Limousin and Lim-Flex makes economic sense. Heterosis and breed complementarity are powerful forces that combine to produce the total crossbred advantage of beef cattle crossbreeding. This crossbred advantage can amount to as much as 25 percent greater lifetime productivity (pounds of calf weaned per cow exposed) for crossbred cows as compared to straightbred cows. Some commercial cow herds have drifted towards straightbred herds in an attempt to achieve management simplicity, greater uniformity in their cattle, and to pursue a premium (non-commodity) product. The result of this shift is the loss of most of the heterosis that once existed in many of our commercial cow herds.

Loss of heterosis shows up in the same lowly heritable traits that would be associated with inbreeding depression, namely reproductive, fitness and longevity traits. Thus, the price paid for loss of heterosis occurs as a number of very small losses that when added up can amount to a substantial sacrifice in lifetime productivity (25%).

Red Angus cattle developed & managed over 25 years on unimproved native fescue pastures with limited supplement in rough and hilly terrain. We have focused on breeding cattle that work in real-world commercial cattle environments. In addition to objective measurements taken in meaningful contemporary groups and strict standards for foot structure, docility and phenotype, we use the latest tools to identify desirable combinations of traits: Feed Efficiency and genomic testing and ultrasound. We offer cattle for sale in our annual fall production sale, which is held the first Saturday of November, WV Beef Expo in the spring and by private treaty. For two decades our bull calves have sold as cooperator bulls in the RA Brown Ranch annual spring and fall production sales.

Research Validates Red Angus as Most-Favored Female

Ranchers across the country have long recognized the value of Red Angus females as the foundation of a profitable cowherd. Now, independent research validates those years of cattle production experience with tangible data proving the Red Angus heifer's worth.

Research Confirmation

Esther McCabe, et al., of Kansas State University, led a study that confirmed Red Angus are the most-favored female in the industry. McCabe and her team compiled five years' worth of pricing data from Superior Livestock Auction, comparing 13,804 lots of heifer calves totaling over 1.2 million head that sold in 116 video auctions.

The research team evaluated the effects of independent variables on the sale price of heifer calves that fell into six different breed composition groups: English, English crosses, English-Continental crosses, Black Angus-sired out of dams with no Brahman influence, Red Angus-sired out of dams with no Brahman influence, and Brahman-influenced.

They deduced that Red Angus-sired heifer calves bring $5 to $9 more per hundredweight than all other breed types.

Rancher Trusted

While market research validates the price advantage of Red Angus heifers, ranchers have tested and trusted her worth on the range for years. Red Angus females are desirable as replacement heifers because they mature into productive mother cows that reward producers with extra dollars in their pockets on sale day.

Red Angus cows have gained ranchers' trust as a complete package through fertility, fleshing ability, good disposition, longevity and excellent overall production. They produce feeder calves that earn premiums in the yard and on the rail through docility, feed efficiency, conversion and carcass merit.

Over the years, stockmen have voted with their checkbooks, purchasing heifers they know will bring profitability to their ranching businesses – and Red Angus females are their most-favored choice. ■

Independent research studying five years of Superior Livestock Auction data confirms the value of Red Angus replacement females.

Red Angus Stockyard
